THE EVENING STAR.

WASHINGTON: November 7, 1887. CROSBY S. NOVES

The Evening Star bas a regular, permaneut bona fide daily circulation more than treble that of any other daily paper published in Washington, and much greater than that of all the other daily papers here added together.

To-morrow's elections generally will be full of interest, but the contests which have attracted most attention are those in New York, Maryland, Virginia, Massachusetts, and Ohlo.

First in importance, of course, is that in New York, not only because the situation there is most complicated, but because the results are likely to decide the question of President Cleveland's recomination, with all that that portends. Eight gularly organized parties are arrayed against other: the democratic, republican, united and national reform. The candidates o be voted for are the principal state officers, excepting governor and lieutenant-governor, both branches of the legislature, nine judges, and two organizations will not be heard of after the vote is ounted, and others will cut a sorry figure. The er part of the fighting will be between the rohibitionists are expected to draw a large part their strength from the republicans and the unifed labor party is supposed to be recruited chiefly from the ranks of the democrats. Of the old parties, the republicans have made the most active kind of a canvass. while the democrats have contented themselves merally with a still hunt, Governor Hill being e most vigorous campaigner in his party, and he ow partisans depending so largely on imported lent for their work on the stump. The hot fight New York city over the district attorneyship will iso affect the vote on the state ticket. Nicoll has he independent democrats, the republicans, and everal leading newspapers supporting him; while Fellows, the regular democratic nominee, has the support of the professional politicans in his own party, the sympathy of part of the "machine" men o the other side, and the President's indorsement. Nicoll, as identified with the vigorous prosecution of the boodlers, ought to be, but probably will not e elected. The defeat of the independents in Balfore is likely to be r peated in Philadelphia there Leeds, the republican boss, is attacked, and a the anti-Fellows revolt in New York city. It is suggested that Nicoll will be traded by some of republicans for votes for the state ticket, and in any event his candicacy will affect the general result, and additionally confuses the political prophets, aircudy puzzled to determine the probable size and effect of the labor and prohibitionist special note because the independent democrats are carrying into it the same spirit that animated their revolt in the Baltimore city election the other lay. It also derives no little interest from the brand which has been cast into the trade ions and workingmen's assemblies by the introon of resolutions condemnatory of E. E. Jack-, the democratic candidate, on account of his eged lack of sympathy with organized labor. But with the independents discouraged by the resuit in Batimore, and with the confirmation of the boasted ability of the "mac ine" to handle the labor vote also furnished by the election in that city, the prospects of the opposition to the State rulers are not particularly brilliant. In Virginia the great question at issue is who all succeed Mr. Riddleberger in the United es Scuate. The democrats are hopeful of reaing their old supremacy, in spite of internal ions over questions of policy, and if they necess in their designs on the legislature this fail there is little doubt that ex-Representative Barbour will come back to Congress as a member of the upper house. Ex-Senator Mahone is the of a split among his former retainers, the repub-licans and readjusters. He has used his power, it is charged, with too keen an eye to his own inter-ests, and with too little of a view to the benefit of the masses of the combined party; and it is possible that the rebelilon will amount to enough to depose him, if he merely carries this campaign to successful end without making it a brilliant tumph. The republicans are hampered by Mahone, the democrats by a republican platform on the tariff question, and both are unsatisfactory on the governorship between the present republican Governor Ames and ex-Representative Lovering. The soldier element is appealed to for votes by both parties. The democrats point to the fact that Mr. Lovering was a soldier in the war for the union, and lost a leg on battle-field, while Mr. Ames sent a substitute, who got his money and then deserted. The re-TRUTH.

The representative of a New York firm, largely encart, has been a persistent worker to have ican veterans turned out of public office to room for his friends. Mr. Ames has a big and Mr. Lovering has none. Hitherto the imps have declined to support either cange but a recent utterance of the President, that arch civil-service reformer, Collector stall, expressing the strongest hope of the soft the democratic ticket, has influenced erce and some other independents to take a blicans retort by showing that Mr. Lovering, as moerat, has been a persistent worker to have ublican veterans turned out of public office to e room for his friends. Mr. Ames has a big rrel and Mr. Lovering has none. Hitherto the nugwumps have declined to support either canthrough that arch civil-service reformer, Collector saltonstall, expressing the strongest hope of the Mr. Pierce and some other independents to take a hand on the side of Mr. Lovering. With a spoils platform and civil service reform endorsement added to that of Gen. Butler, Mr. Lovering ought to reduce considerably the republican majority.

In Ohio the fight has been warmly waged from the start. Governor Foraker, who is seeking relection, is on the stump for himself, while the election, is on the stump for himself, while the cleetion, is on the stump for himself, while the uccess of the democratic ticket, has influenced emocratic candidate, Mr. Powell, not only is imnurman to his active support, and brought Governor Gordon, of Georgia, and other outsiders to "bloody shirt" issue, to which Mr. Foraker's osition upon the battle-flag order and his recent esches, in connection with those of the Georgia overnor in Ohio and that of General Jackson at Macon, have given some prominence.

Whatever may be done in the case of his companions, there is no longer much doubt that Lings. e anarchist bomb-maker, will be hanged on Friday. The discovery yesterday of a number of bombs concealed in his cell practically settled the bombs concealed in his cell practically settled the matter, for it will put a stop to the collection of signatures by soft-hearted people to petitions in his benaif. There will be more puty for Kagel, who attempted suicide by laudanum, than for Lingg, whose obvious purpose was to add to the number of lives lost through his countvance since the miserable business of the Haymarket mass-meeting.

PARIS EVENING GOODS. erable business of the Haymarket mass-meeting

Of course, the friends of the anarchists will claim that the finding of the bombs was part of a deliberate plot concected by the authorities to influence public sentiment. If there is the slightest foundation for such a suspicion, justice demands that the whole matter be sifted to the bottom. On the other hand, however, it should be remembered that Lingy has been, from the first, a desperate character; that his capture nearly cost the life of the officer who made the arrest, and that the conlemned men in the prison, and their closest allies outside, have never lost an opportunity of trying o terrorize the public by stories of the dreadful things which were to happen if they should not get a new trial or a pardon by the governor.

The stock market has shown, for the last week, nore signs of real strength than at any time hereofore since midsummer, and the effect is notice. able in business feeling generally throughout the country. Wall street, since its recent convulsions, has lost some of its prestige as a reflector of finanwith which it can be manipulated, on occasion, to suit the purposes of an individual speculator or clique of speculators. But the potency of its innce on the feeling of the world of trade can er be questioned. The steadlest-headed merchnt is conscious of a sense of oppression pervading e community when quotations are down, and or moyancy when they go up again. The feeling is entagious. The very atmosphere seems charged with it. Every person who does business does it with a lighter heart to-day, when the market is comparatively steady, than a month ago, when is was in a state of semi-collapse. Confidence is in a fair way to complete reestablishment after the passing fright; and, with the long session of Congress close at hand, and the agitation of the tariff question going on without abatement, there is not MIRRORS. ALL THE ROGERS GROUPS OF much danger that an occasional bear raid will provoke a panic, or anything approaching one.

After to-morrow's election of district attorney, the memoers of the New York press will resume, in a measure, their normal and decent condition o's family papers. The election will bring that blessing to the public, no matter how it may really to
